

2019 APSA Methods Café

Friday, August 30, 2:00 – 3:30 PM, Marriott Wardman Park, Washington 4 (lower level)

“What is _____ method?”

“I’m in the midst of analyzing my data and I’ve run into a problem, how should I handle it?”

“One of my committee members doesn’t believe that interpretive methods are valid. How can I respond to this challenge?”

Bring all of your interpretive methods-related questions to the 2019 Methods Café. The café features a series of tables staffed by specialists with expertise in a range of interpretive methods and approaches as well as publishing and funding. The café is an informal setting allowing for one-on-one and group discussions, networking, and support in which visitors are encouraged to arrive at any time, sit at any table they like, and move among tables as they wish. Doctoral students with questions about their research are encouraged to attend, as well as faculty with questions about researching and/or teaching these subjects.

Archives and Historical Analysis

Amel F. Ahmed, University of Massachusetts, Amherst
Emily Hauptmann, Western Michigan University

Case Studies

Kendra L. Koivu, University of New Mexico
Annika M. Hinze, Fordham University

Discourse Analysis

Lisa Wedeen, University of Chicago

Ethics and the IRB

Peregrine Schwartz-Shea, University of Utah
Sarah E. Parkinson, Johns Hopkins University

Sponsors

Cambridge University Press Methods for Social Inquiry & Strategies for Social Inquiry Series
Routledge Series on Interpretive Methods
SAGE / CQ Press Publications

Publishing

Michael Bernhard, University of Florida
Dan O'Neill, University of Florida
Aaron Javscas, Temple University Press

Political Ethnography

Robin L. Turner, Butler University
Erica S. Simmons, University of Wisconsin, Madison

Interviewing

James M. Curry, University of Utah

Funding

Michael L. Miller, Social Science Research Council

Faculty Organizers

Samantha Majic, John Jay College, CUNY
Timothy Pachirat, University of Massachusetts, Amherst

Critical Approaches to Gender, Race, Sexuality, and Colonialism

Dara Z. Strolovitch, Princeton University
Nadia E. Brown, Purdue University

Teaching Methods

Cecelia Lynch, University of California, Irvine
Elisabeth Jean Wood, Yale University

Research Design

Dvora Yanow, Wageningen University

Public Engagement and Action

Amy Cabrera Rasmussen, California State University, Long Beach

Graduate Student Host

B Stone, The Graduate Center, CUNY